

1 23-106. Supreme Court rules committees.

2 A. Authority to appoint. The Supreme Court may appoint standing committees and 3 ad hoc committees to assist the Court with its rulemaking function and to make recommendations 4 to the Court for drafting and revising rules, forms, and uniform jury instructions for approval by 5 the Court. As used in this rule and in Rule 23-106.1 NMRA, a committee includes a board or 6 commission created by the Court for the same purposes.

7 B. Composition of committees. Most standing committees will be comprised of nine 8 (9) members appointed by the Court to reflect geographical balance and to represent the various 9 factions of the bar, such as prosecutors, defense attorneys, private attorneys, and government 10 attorneys, but the Court in its discretion may appoint more or fewer than nine (9) members to any 11 standing committee. Ad hoc committees will be comprised of as many members as the Court 12 deems necessary with the same considerations of balance as for standing committees.

13 C. Chairperson; duties; subcommittees. The Court may appoint a chair and vice-14 chair for each committee. The chair shall have the authority to call meetings of the committee on 15 whatever basis deemed necessary to ensure that the work of the committee is accomplished, and 16 shall call at least one (1) meeting each year to evaluate the operation of the rules for which the 17 committee is responsible and set future meeting dates for the remainder of the year. The chair will 18 preside at all meetings and is responsible for communicating with the Court on behalf of the 19 committee. In the absence of the chair, the chair may designate another committee member or 20 committee staff to assume the authority of the chair, provided that committee staff temporarily 21 designated to chair the committee may not vote and shall not count for establishing a quorum. The 22 chair may appoint one or more subcommittees, as deemed necessary, to develop recommendations
23 for consideration by the standing committee. The members of a subcommittee may include

1 members from the standing committee and other individuals with experience and expertise the 2 chair determines would be helpful to the work of the subcommittee.

3 D. Terms of appointment. Standing committee members shall be appointed for a 4 term of three (3) years. The Court may appoint a standing committee member to fill a partial term 5 created by the departure of another member. When a new standing committee is created, the 6 Supreme Court clerk is authorized to randomly assign one (1), two (2), and three (3)-year terms
7 for new members to achieve a staggering of terms. Standing committee members who are initially 8 assigned a one (1) or two (2)-year term, or who are appointed to complete the remainder of an 9 unexpired term of a prior member, may be reappointed to two (2) full three (3)-year terms
10 thereafter. No standing committee member shall serve for more than two (2) full three (3)-year
11 terms unless ordered by the Court. Members of ad hoc committees may be appointed by the Court 12 with or without membership terms. Any standing or ad hoc committee member may resign at any 13 time during the member's term by informing the Court in writing.

14 E. Committee participation required. All committee members are expected to 15 actively participate in committee business and regularly attend committee meetings. If any 16 committee member, including the chair, is absent from three (3) consecutive committee meetings, 17 that person is deemed to have resigned from the committee. The committee chair or committee 18 staff may excuse an absence at their discretion, if the absent committee member provides a written 19 request for the excusal. Any resignation shall be reported to the Court, in writing, by the chair or 20 committee staff, and the chair or committee staff may recommend to the Court that a committee 21 member not be required to resign under the provisions of this rule due to exceptional 22 circumstances. For purposes of this paragraph, an absence shall be defined as,

1 (1) failing to attend a regularly scheduled committee meeting for any reason;

2 or

3 (2) contributing to the lack of a quorum that results in the cancellation of a 4 regularly scheduled committee meeting.

5 F. State bar representative. The Board of Bar Commissioners may appoint a liaison
6 to each standing committee. Any liaison appointed to the Judicial Performance Evaluation
7 Commission, Disciplinary Board or Board of Bar Examiners may participate in discussions 8 pertaining to rulemaking or matters of general policy but may not participate in executive sessions 9 and other confidential proceedings or in pending disciplinary or admission matters.

10 G. Supreme Court liaison. The chief justice may appoint a liaison justice to a 11 committee.

12 H. Committee staff. The Court may appoint or contract for such staff as may be 13 needed for each committee. If appointed, the committee staff shall be responsible for providing 14 notice of meetings, assisting the chair with setting the agenda for meetings and other duties of the 15 chair, drafting and revising rules, forms, and uniform jury instructions, serving as a liaison between 16 the committee and the Court, and any other duties requested by the Court. It shall not be necessary 17 for committee staff to keep minutes.

18 I. Quorum and voting. All appointed members, including the chair, shall have one 19 (1) vote. Voting by proxy is not permitted. Committee staff, guests, and liaisons may participate 20 in meetings, but may not vote. A quorum of the committee consists of a majority of its voting 21 members, including the chair. A quorum includes any member who is present in person, by 22 telephone, or by videoconference~~[, or by other electronic communication]~~. A quorum shall be

1 present and voting before any committee business may be adopted and recommended to the Court.
2 Committees may, however, meet and discuss matters without a quorum present.
